

Hi Everyone,

Did you know over 150 million still-good crayons are thrown away each year by restaurants in the United States? But crayons don't decompose and there are kids who have no crayons of their own!

We can fix that by collecting, recycling, and donating our crayons to others. Take the pledge to collect gently used crayons. Next time you receive crayons when you dine out don't leave them behind. Bring them to school and drop them in the Crayon Collection box. Once the box is full, we can donate the crayons to a school who really needs them.

You can tell your friends about this too. There's no reason why crayons should end up in landfill! We can work together to donate these crayons and find a good home for them.

Every kid should have a crayon, and we have plenty to share. So let's spread color and kindness to kids everywhere! So spread the word #CrayonCollection

Visit www.crayoncollection.org for more information.

Thank you for your help!