These individualized pouches give children a sense of ownership and confidence to own their own crayons. Many times it's the first batch of crayons they have ever received so they cherish this gift so very much. The surprise on their faces to open the pouches and find which colors and shapes of crayons they've received is always so heart-warming. The note of kindness that is also included creates such a sense of connection among children living within a few miles of one another yet with very different circumstances.
